Umney found innocent in slaying but may face federal gun charge

DR. DALE A. DAVIS, foreman of the jury in the trial of Robert Umney, visited the scene of the shooting last week. The jury brought a verdict of not guilty.

By ELINOR GRAHAM

The first degree murder trial of Robert Umney in the shooting death of Terry Buchman ended Friday when the jury reached a verdict of innocent.

Dr. Dale A. Davis, professor of economics at Eastern Michigan University was foreman of the 12-man jury. After five hours of deliberation he presented the verdict before Wayne Circuit Court Judge Blair Moody Jr. in the absence of Judge Horace Gilmore who had been hearing the case.

ATTORNEYS Richard Zatkin and Robert B. Delaney of Plymouth had defended Umney. He was the third member of the trio charged in the Jan. 28 shooting of Buchman.

Barry Provow, who asked for a non-jury trial, was to receive his verdict this morning (Monday) at 9:30. Judge George Roumell placed his decision in a sealed envelope awaiting the outcome of the Umney trial. Provow's wife, Leslie, pleaded no contest to a manslaughter charge. She was sentenced Sept. 17 to seven to 15 years.

Det. Larry Patterson of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, officer in charge of the investigation said, "We are flabbergasted at the jury's verdict."

A SHERIFF'S Department spokesman announced later in the day that they had turned the Umney case over to the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Unit of the U.S. Treasury Department. They will ask for a grand jury indictment for a federal firearms violation.

The spokesman said, "We have put a hold on him as a convicted felon in possession of firearms."

WITNESSES IN the Provow and Umney trials unfolded a sordid story of drugs, beer drinking, fear, anger and stolen guns that led to the death of one of their friends. It also resulted in months of tragedy for the families involved. No one knows exactly when it started and it hasn't ended.

Tuesday, Jan. 28—After an evening of drinking and taking "acid," five young persons end up at the corner of Joy and Ridge Roads in Canton Township. Terry Buchman, 22, is dead. Lloyd Cash, 20, is beaten.

Friday, Jan. 31—Barry Provow, 26, his wife Leslie, 18, and Robert Umney, 23, are picked up by state troopers near Laramie, Wyo.

Friday, Feb. 7—The trio is brought back from Wyoming.

Saturday, Feb. 8—They are arraigned before District Judge Francis E. Burger in Westland, in a makeshift courtroom at the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office on Henry Ruff Road. They are charged with first degree murder.

Friday, Feb. 21—They appear before District Judge Dunbar Davis in Plymouth for a preliminary examination. All three are bound over for trial.

Wednesday, Aug. 13— Barry Provow's non-jury trial begins before Circuit Judge George Roumell. He is defended by Richard Pantel.

Thursday, Aug. 28—Leslie Provow pleads no contest to manslaughter.

Thursday, Sept. 4—Umney jury trial begins before Circuit Judge Horace Gilmore.

Friday, Sept. 5—Judge Roumell puts Provow decision in a sealed envelope.

Wednesday, Sept. 17—Leslie Provow is sentenced to seven to 15 years imprisonment.

Friday, Sept 19—Jury declares Robert Umney innocent.

Monday, Sept. 22—Sealed verdict for Barry Provow is revealed.

Dehoco inmates are moved to Salem for welding class

School Supt. John M. Hoben said Friday that because of a change of scheduling, Detroit House of Correction inmates would attend night welding classes in Plymouth Salem High School.

Regular adult education welding classes will be held in Central Middle School. Until Dehoco officials agreed to the change in time, welding classes for the inmates had been scheduled to begin today (Monday) in Central.

ABOUT 40 PARENTS and teachers were in the audience of the Central Middle School PTSO board meeting last Thursday evening. They came loaded with questions.

The rumor that Dehoco inmates were beginning welding classes in a building housing elementary classrooms at Central had reached a few ears on Wednesday.

Telephones rang all day Thursday as the news spread that the rumor was true. The Dehoco inmates had attended welding classes in Plymouth Salem for two years as part of the continuing education program. More space was needed. The welding shop at Central, used as storage space for supplies since the high school moved to the Centennial Educational Park, was being reactivated.

Jim Mortensen, PTSO president, invited Larry Masteller, director of continuing education and recreation for the Plymouth Community School District to explain the move. Donald Gregory, senior community services assistant at Dehoco, fielded questions concerning members of the welding class.

Main concerns of the parents and teachers were security, noise and type of prisoners attending the classes.

MASTELLER said the welding shop would be closed off completely from the rest of the school. The bus would drive up to within a few feet of an outdoor entrance where the inmates would disembark.

He explained that washroom facilities would be available in the area set aside for the class. At Plymouth Salem, the Dehoco students are allowed one break when they are escorted to a washroom several rooms way from the welding shop.

Masteller said the district receives state aid for the students on the basis of ⅓ per inmate. He estimated that, for the 100 persons involved in the welding classes, the schools would receive state aid for 25 fulltime students which would amount to about $30,000.

Dale Rothenberg asked, "What is the nature of these people? What security measures are taken?"

"These are trusties," said Gregory. "They are 17 years of age or older. They have been convicted of some crime—maybe even 90 days for letting his dog run loose. We depend on them to cook and clean. They do laundry for hospitals, work on our farm, do the canning.

"They work in the commissary, do the typing. They could escape from Dehoco at any time.

"About 10 out of every 20 want to improve themselves, and it is from among these that we decide who will enroll in the welding class.

"I understand your fears," he continued. "No one with a sexual record would be admitted to the class.

"AT SALEM the biggest problem was the students who wanted to see our people.

"The inmates were jealous of the narcotics students were getting that they weren't allowed to have."

Sue Harper, whose third grade classroom abuts the welding shop, was concerned about noise. "The rooms are not soundproof, and I don't think an elementary school is the place for prisoners."

Mortensen asked how many security guards there were per inmate. He was told a bus driver and the instructor.

Second grade teacher Barbara Overholt suggested they change the scheduling and hold the class at night.

Instructor Patrick Murray who has taught the class at Salem for two years said he felt they were "emotionally over-reacting." He said it was a case of "rehabilitate them in your back yard, not mine."

Before the group left on a tour of the welding shop and adjoining classrooms, Mortensen asked School Board President Marda Benson to give them her feelings on the problem.

Ms. Benson said she sympathized with their concerns and would initiate immediate discussions to arrange alternate scheduling.

Canton to study auxiliary police

Canton Township may have its own voluntary police force to patrol the township and enforce the law before the end of the 1976 fiscal year.

That's the hope of Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein, who proposed an allocation of $6,000 for establishment of the auxiliary in his 1976 recommended budget.

ALTHOUGH THE supervisor has spoken to numerous police officers and officials of municipalities with auxiliary forces, Greenstein has not yet gathered enough information to introduce the topic to the township board publicly.

"Establishment of an auxiliary force would need the resolution of the board," Greenstein said. "But I'm not going to introduce that resolution until I'm prepared and know exactly what it would take.

"I've been talking about this a long time, and I'd like to start service in that direction. I'm hoping we'll be able to establish something like that in the next year."

Greenstein envisions Canton's voluntary force as the parallel of many municipalities' auxiliary forces. Volunteers would receive training and patrol the township without pay.

Although the proposed $6,000 allocation would purchase equipment for the volunteers, Greenstein says auxiliary force members would probably use their own automobiles for patrol purposes.

THE VOLUNTEER force would provide some police protection to Canton residents, if Wayne County stopped funding of the Sheriff's road patrol in townships.

"That's where the auxiliary would be of help," Greenstein said. "It would be a stop-gap if the county pulled the sheriff's department out in an overnight move. Even if we ultimately had to go to our own department, a well-trained auxiliary would augment that."

The supervisor does not favor establishment of a paid, full time police department in Canton unless the county stops financing the Sheriff's road patrol.

ACCORDING TO a ruling of Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas J. Foley, the county is not obligated to provide road patrol service to the townships. Seven townships, including Canton and Plymouth, are appealing that decision in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved financing of the road patrol program until Nov. 30, the end of the county's current fiscal year. The board originally ordered an April 30 cut-off for road patrol funding, but other votes extended the funding until the end of July and November.

"Aside from the road patrol, we see nothing from the county," Greenstein said. "All those guys do is take and take and take. We believe we're being ripped off horribly by the county. We're paying 7½ mills and getting nothing in return.

"The only thing we get from the county is the Sheriff's patrol. I feel as long as the county is taking 7½ mills, we should use their police force."

CANTON'S OWN fulltime police force would cost the township about $400,000 each year, Greenstein says. A volunteer force would ensure continued police protection to residents at an inexpensive rate.

"I'm interested," Greenstein said of the auxiliary force, "and I want to put it in. But you don't jump into something before you see where you're going to land."

Greenstein's recommended budget and proposed $6,000 allocation for establishment of the voluntary force will be discussed at a public hearing Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. in the township firehall, located at Canton Center and Cherry Hill.

Plant security guard is charged with murder of Howmet foreman

By MAURIE WALKER

A 54-year-old Farmington man faces pretrial examination Sept. 29 in Plymouth District Court, charged with murder in the first degree with malace, in the shooting last Thursday of his boss at Howmet Corp., 41605 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth Township.

Charles W. Smith, of 23101 Haynes, Farmington, stood mute when arraigned on the charge Friday before 29th District Judge John Seiler.

SMITH IS charged with shooting Walter A. Warbrouck, 44, of Brighton following an argument in the Howmet plant Thursday afternoon.

Det. Ray Allen of the Wayne County Sheriff department said Smith had been hired by Bonded Security Service Inc. and was assigned to the Howmet plant.

The detective gave this account of the murder:

"Smith had been off ill for two days. He called his employer Thursday morning and learned he was no longer assigned to Howmet.

"Witnesses said Smith had been drinking before coming to the plant to talk with Warbrouck about his job," the detective said.

Smith parked his car in the parking lot outside the plant and walked into the building. He was met by two supervisors and asked them where Warbrouck was, reportedly saying, "Where's Walley? The SOB, he cost me my job."

The supervisors told Smith to leave. He refused and began checking areas in the plant.

"He apparently saw Warbrouck enter a men's room and followed him in along with the supervisors. Smith argued with Warbrouck, charging him with being responsible for losing his job at the plant," Allen added.

WITNESSES SAID Smith left the washroom following Warbrouck and the two supervisors into the hall. Just outside one of the offices, Smith reportedly pulled a gun, a 357 Magnum, six shot.

Ron Rohraft, one of the supervisors, grabbed Smith's arm, shoving it upward. The gun went off, hitting the ceiling.

Rohraft ran for help.

"Smith is reported to have then pointed the gun at Warbrouck saying, 'And here is another for you,' and fired."

Witnesses told Sheriff deputies that Warbrouck shouted, "I've been shot in the lung." He then fell to the floor.

SMITH FLED out of the plant to his car where he was found when the Sheriff deputies arrived.

"The body was found lying on the floor of the plant, face down," the detective said.

Board may hire 2 new principals

The Plymouth Board of Education is scheduled to approve the hiring of principals for two new elementary schools at tonight's (Monday) meeting.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the cafetorium of Plymouth Canton High, 8415 Canton Center Road.

TWO OF the district's three new elementary schools are scheduled to open in January, 1976, and the administration is anxious to have the board approve principals for both, so they can get involved in preliminary work toward opening the schools.

The principal appointments are for the Truesdell site school and for the Windsor Park site school.

The board will also be asked to approve a water easement worked out between the school district and Canton Township for Phase III construction at Plymouth Canton High.

UNDER OLD BUSINESS, the board will be asked again to approve a master contract for cafeteria employes.

It failed to receive approval at the last meeting when two school board members objected that the hourly rate at the lower end of the pay scale was insufficient.

Another easement agreement up for approval will be between the school district, Gould Development Company and Ford Leasing Development Co. at school site number four.

Man regains chopped-off thumb

A Plymouth resident who lost his thumb in an industrial accident in a Redford Township tool shop has made medical history of sorts.

David Nail, 30, of 910 Tyndall, Plymouth, becomes the second successful thumb reimplanation in Michigan. The operation was preformed in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, where the first reimplanation also occurred in 1974.

THE ACCIDENT happened in the Lex Tool and Machine Co. in Redford Township, a shop owned by Nail's father, William Nail.

Nail had his thumb bandaged because of an earlier fracture. While working on the lathe, the bandage got caught in the machine and his thumb got completely ripped off.

The father first rushed his son to Redford Community Hospital. Doctors there asked the father to return to the tool shop and retrieve the thumb. The thumb was found still in the lathe and was returned to Redford Hospital where it was packed in ice and sent to Beaumont along with Nail for the surgery. Surgery was performed at Beaumont within five hours of the accident.

DR. ROBERT POOL, chief of plastic surgery at Beaumont, reports a team of surgeons reattached the thumb through microsurgery.

Performing the operation, which took less then three hours, were: Dr. Sri Ram, plastic surgery specialist; Dr. Thomas Magnell, orthopedic specialist in hand surgery; Dr. Prayote Buddhirakkul, first-year resident in plastic surgery; and Dr. Peter M. Boruta, second-year resident in orthopedic surgery.

Microsurgery is surgical repair performed under magnification with a microscope. The first Michigan thumb reimplanation was performed by Dr. Ram at Beaumont in June, 1974, when an 18-year-old lost his thumb in an industrial accident. He has since returned to full employment. Only about 100 such operations have been performed in the U.S. thus far.

Ram reports Nail now has a "living thumb" and will have significant use of it.

Expecting to return to work in three to five months, Nail says the future looks very good. He added that doctors were very pleased with the operation. Nail and wife Marilyn have two children—Lisa, 9, and Jennifer, 1½.

RAM SAID the thumb was completely ripped off.

"We reattached the thumb and put back blood vessels under magnification. We didn't expect the thumb to survive because it was badly injured. The patient had a compound fracture of this same thumb before this injury. For that reason, we didn't think it would survive."

Ram said Nail will need surgery later to replace tendon and nerves severed in the lathe accident.

INSPECTING DAVID NAIL'S reimplanted thumb two weeks after microsurgery are Dr. Peter Boruta (left) and Dr. Prayote Buddhirakkul, residents at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Schools juggle bus schedules

Some of the buses are overcrowded with students in the Plymouth Community School District because of a delay in delivery of 11 new buses.

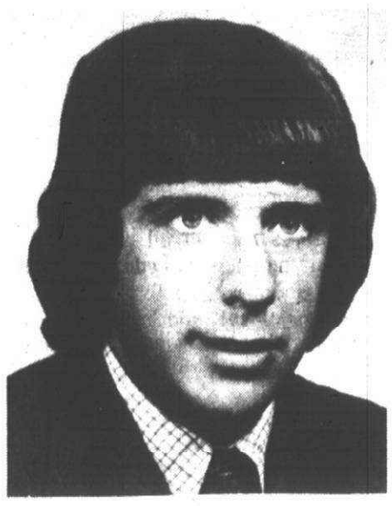
At present, about 42 buses are operating to transport some 7,200 students being bused to school in the district.

The maximum load for most buses is 66 with three students per seat. The administration reports that many of the buses going to the Centennial Educational Park are the most overcrowded trips in the district.

In commenting on the over-crowded bus situation, Robert Houghton, supervisor of transportation, says: "We are juggling every day trying to adjust routes with the time element and equipment we have at hand.

"Equipment that was due in July will not be here until October or November. At that time, we will put new units on the road to lighten loads and get back on schedule."

The administration is continuing to negotiate with the bus manufacturer to obtain as speedy delivery on the 11 new buses as possible.



DAVID LaGARCE of Ypsilanti has been named director of sales for the new five-story, 195-room Plymouth Hilton Inn. He has been in the hotel business since 1969 working as a purchasing agent, sales manager and director of sales. His previous position was director of sales at the Hilton Inn at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, Romulus. He attended Berkshire College and is a graduate of the hotel-motel management curriculum of the State University of New York.

W-W election weighed

New approach to be tried for bond issue

By MARILYN FITCHETT

A bond issue proposal dividing the question into various needs of the school district will be recommended to the Wayne-Westland Board of Education by both Supt. Timothy Dyer and the Citizens' Advisory Committee.

Dyer, his administration and four members of the board met with the committee last year to review results of the district survey on the June election in which $28 million bond issue was defeated. (See related story)

Dyer, responding to the committee's recommendation that the bond issue be split, said he concurred with the committee's position.

"Personally I'm a strong believer in democracy," Dyer said.

"The voters indicated they didn't like the June proposal and the majority rules.

"We're taking their reaction very seriously. We know as much about that election as anybody can know about an election.

"I think we should be going after a separate issue for the swimming pools."

Dyer, who made a strong claim for replacing the central administration building with a new structure before the committee, later spoke in favor of repairing the building instead.

"The voters saw this as a controversial issue," he said. "I think we'll have to abandon our original ideas and plan to remain in this building for as long as possible."

The original proposal called for $28 million for a variety of projects including building maintenance, erection of recreational facilities including swimming pools, erection of a central administration office, and the junior highs and for special education and vocational education programs.

AT LAST WEEK'S meeting, the committee unanimously decided to recommend returning to the voters for a new bond proposal. They voted 17-11 to divide the package rather than to return it to the voters in the same form with adjustments made for inflation.

The group also urged a a December vote. Dyer explained the district may be able to get the issue on the Dec. 1 ballot, but if the election commission ruled against that date, Dec. 9 would be the next choice.

Whether or not to divide the package, Dyer campaigned before the committee for a return to the polls.

"Our need for bond money didn't end on June 9," Dyer told his audience. "Not only are we taking money from the general fund we had hoped to receive in bonds, but we're losing state funding because the facilities we had planned, cannot be built without the bonds.

"We're spending $200,000 on repairs in the district, many of which are of the patchwork variety. Another $100,000 is being spent on equipment which is wearing out.

Dyer estimated the district is losing out on $125,000 in state funding of vocational educationa and special education programs.

HE CALLED THE DISTRICT'S central administration building unsafe and unhealthy.

"I can't ask employes to work there when the beams are sagging and the ceiling is collapsing. The heating system has only two settings—on and off and there is no ventilation.

"If we have to renovate that building it will cost $300,000 and we won't see a dime of it. It's an inadequate facility that's 51 years old."

COMMENTS FROM THE COMMITTEE ranged from criticism of the one-lump package to the way the program was presented to the public. Several comments advised playing a "consumerism" into the bond issue to give the voters a chance to vote yes on the pieces they approved and no on the ones they considered unimportant.

"It seems to me the economic condition is no different than if was in June," one member said. "What we're seeing is a rerun of inflation especially with gas prices going up.

"We have to try to eliminate the no votes and maybe we can do that by eliminating the swimming pools.

"People are having trouble gaining confidence in the governmental system. If we go back with the same package, the people are going to ask, 'What kind of malarkey is this?'"

Several members of the committee referred to the recreational facilities and the new central administration building as "frills" which should be trimmed from the bond issue. But one woman criticized the district for not relaying to the voter that the pools would be used for the entire community.

"The swimming pools could have had a more positive image if you would have brought up the fact that the community could have used the pools too," she said.

"I didn't see this mentioned in the papers or in the literature the schools put out. One of my neighbors said she was so tired of picking up the pamphlets off her lawn that she was sure the district could have built a pool by themselves with the money they spent on literature."

NONE OF THE COMMITTEE members had any quarrels with the amount of repairs the district needed.

"I don't see any alternatives to repairing the physical plant operations," one man said. "We have a tremendous opportunity to capitalize on this bond issue. If we wait a year or two the costs are going to go up tremendously."

But one woman criticized what she called an attitude in the district of building the new rather than repairing the old.

"I live in one of the older parts of Wayne," she said.

The people in my area feel that if they're making repairs on homes that are 60 years old, the district should be able to keep up its schools."

SEVERAL OF THE committee members were concerned about showing the district's residents that the bond issue projects were helping to keeep unemployment down in the community.

"I'd like to see a study done to show how much of the $28 million is kept in the Wayne-Westland area," one man said. "If we show the people we're keeping the money in the community, the issue will pass.

Dyer said he was not sure of the legal and union ramifications of such a plan, but offered it might be illegal to allow only local companies to bid on local projects.

BOARD PRESIDENT Thomas Barrett addressed the committee, saying "basic questions" had to be answered before the board would consider the proposal.

"The question is still very much up in the air," Barrett said. Ultimately the decision lies with the seven of us. We hope that whatever decision we make will be to the benefit of everybody, especially the students."

Other board members attending the meeting were Agnes Greene, William White and Vince Petitpren.

Some reasons for W-W bond defeat discovered

A sagging economy and a lack of conviction on the part of voters that the Wayne-Westland District needed such "frills" as swimming pools for the junior high schools and a new central administration building caused the defeat of a $28 million bond proposal, a school district survey indicates.

Under the direction of Dr. James R. Doyle of the district's department of research and evaluation, the district compiled an exhaustive, 27-page report which outlined voter feelings in the June election and reflected how difficult economic times helped to discourage bond proposals throughout Michigan, only one year after school finance proposals had met with considerable success.

"We were very fortunate to have come as close as we did in the election," Supt. Timothy Dyer said, referring to the 4,229-3,776 vote.

"There was a tremendous reversal of voter attitude in just one year. There was no worse election in Michigan history for education than 1975.

THE SURVEY INDICATED that in 1974 about 50 per cent of the dollar amount on bond issues passed. In 1975, only 2.4 per cent of the dollar amounts managed to survive the election. Ninety per cent of the bond issues in 1975 met with defeat. In 1974, 56 per cent of all bond issues were passed.

Dyer also noted that in 1975, at the time of the election, the state's unemployment rate was measured at 14.5 per cent, or just shy of twice the national average.

BUT THE SURVEY, which was sent to 2,100 voters and answered by 800, indicated that voters were in clear disagreement with a couple of provisions of the bond issue.

An analysis of the survy shows that 70.1 per cent of the no voters surveyed cited recreational facilities and swimming pools as a reason why they voted no.

Only 43.1 per cent of the yes voters cited this as a reason they voted yes. Conversely 56.9 per cent of the yes voters did not think pools and recreational facilities enough of an issue to cast a yes vote.

Of the no voters, 64.8 per cent of the voters cited inability to support even a minimal tax increase, or the reason that improvements are cheaper now than later, as reasons why they voted no.

Of the yes voters, 71.4 per cent cited the minimal tax increase and the cheaper improvement factor as reason enough to vote yes.

On the educational service center, 41 per cent of the no voters cited this as a reason why they voted no. Only 37.1 per cent of the yes voters cited this as a reason why they voted yes. Conversely, 62.9 per cent of the yes voters did not think this enough of an issue to cause their yes vote.

Confusion during the final week before the vote on favorable opportunity were cited by 26.3 per cent of the no voters as a reason why they voted no. Of the yes voters, 52.8 per cent of the yes voters cited this as a reason they voted yes.

"Confusion during the final week" refers to a newspaper account quoting Dyer as calling the bond issue "a virtual give-away." Dyer was also involved in a "flap" with State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland) over the district's responsibility to repay the loan.

SPECIAL EDUCATION was cited by 25.8 per cent of the no voters as a reason why they voted no. Of the yes voters, 61.8 per cent cited this as a reason they voted yes.

The no voters who indicated their displeasure with vocational education as a benefit of the bond issue measured 23.3 per cent. The yes voters who cited vocational education as a a reason for voting yes on the bond proposal counted 72.1 per cent.

On the building repairs issue, 21.6 per cent of the no voters cited this as a reaon they voted no, while 80 per cent of the yes voters felt it was the maintenance problems which demanded a yes vote.

Of the no voters, 18.3 per cent cited needs not clearly explained or well-founded as reason enough to vote no. Yes voters measured 53.2 per cent as a reason for voting yes.

DYER CONTENDED that yes and no voters were not in disagreement with each other.

"The thing to notice is the inverse ratio," Dyer said. "The yes voters voted yes least of all because of the swimming pools and education center. The no voters had little objection to the vocational and special ed programs the bond issue would have generated."

Schools seek American Indians

Elementary principals in the Plymouth Community School District will conduct a survey this week to identify the children of American Indian descent.

The survey's purpose is to determine if the district is eligible to receive federal funds for the improvement of education of children who are part American Indian.

The funds are available under Title IV, Part A, of the Indian Education Act and may be used for activities such as arts and crafts, and supportive activities such as counseling and job placement. Funds also may be spent for health and dental needs.

Rules governing the financial grant require the parents of Indian children be involved in the planning for the use of funds and in supervising and evaluating the program.

A child who has one great-great-grandparent who was a full-blooded Indian is counted as an Indian, as defined by the Office of Education in Washington, DC.

The information is to be gathered by having each child take home a form to be completed by families who think they might be eligible. Anyone feeling they might have an eligible child should contact the board of education offices on Harvey Street in Plymouth and a form will be mailed.

Waara wins lottery prize

A Canton Township resident is $6,250 richer this week after cashing in on last week's Michigan lottery drawing.

Richard Waara, 30, of 8188 Fawn Circle, took a one-eighth piece of the lottery's $50,000 prize, when a ticket held by the eight-member Elgin Co. Lottery Club won the prize.

Waara Friday picked up the $50,000 check in Lansing on behalf of the lottery club. The $1 Triple Play ticket which qualified for the $50,000 prize was dated July 3.

Grand opening features rides

A carnival and grand opening festivities are coming to Canton's Harvard Square Shopping Center at the northeast corner of Sheldon and Ford.

The Harvard Co. has scheduled the grand opening celebration for Oct. 3-5. The celebration will feature children's rides, music within the mall and a carnival atmosphere.

The celebration is planned to help Harvard Square's new tenants get started, according to Edward T. Boutrous, managing partner of the Harvard Co. Proceeds are earmarked for the Canton Jaycees and local merchants.

Members of the Canton Board of Trustees have approved the grand opening event, which calls for the erection of temporary signs publicizing the celebration.

Board action may be taped

The proceedings of Canton Township Board of Trustees meetings may soon be on tape for officials and residents to scrutinize.

Township board members have unanimously approved a motion of Trustee James Poole to advertise for bids for a tape recording system for the township meeting hall.

The system would ease the work of secretary Doris Kelley, who writes the minutes for township board meetings.

Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein says the recording system could be incorporated into the room's existing public address system, now unused because of poor acoustics. The room, located in the township firehall at Canton Center and Cherry Hill, may soon be redecorated.

Appointees fill chamber seats

The board of directors of the Canton Chamber of Commerce has appointed two persons to fill the vacancies left by the resignation of Thomas G. Daily, secretary-treasurer of the chamber and a member of the board of directors.

Daily resigned from the chamber posts when he gave up his position as manager and vice president of the Wayne Bank to become assistant city manager of the City of Wayne.

Named to fill the secretary-treasurer position is Alfred J. Daly, present member of the board of directors and past treasurer of the chamber. Daly is owner of Daisy Plastic, Inc.

Mary Perna, manager of Security Bank and Trust, was named to fill the board of directors seat left vacant by Daily's resignation.

Here's how residents can protect valuables

By MAURIE WALKER

Once every 13 seconds, more than 2,400,000 times annually, about $739 million is lost due to burglaries in the home, office, car. The public is being robbed blind.

What can be done? Police say there is no single solution to burglary, but there is a program that has dramatically reduced this crime in many area.

CALLED "Operation Identification", the program encourages residents to engrave their drivers' license number on valuables such as radios, cameras, typewriters, golf clubs and power tools.

In the Plymouth and Canton areas, the Plymouth Police Department, as well as the Michigan State Police subpost on Mill Street, are prepared to help residents stamp identification on their valuables.

The Plymouth Police Department has 17 electric engravers, the State Police post has 15, all of which were donated by the National Bank of Detroit.

The engraving tool, which is as simple to operate as a pencil, is available free of charge to any residents who wish to engrave their valuables.

Plymouth Police Chief Timothy Ford said residents may apply at the police station on Main street between 4 and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from noon to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

Lt. William Tomczyk, commander of the State Police subpost, said engravers are available from 8 a.m. to midnight, seven days a week.

ALL THAT is necessary to borrow the engraver is to apply at one of the police stations, fill out a short form, giving your name, address, area of residence and driver's license number.

Sgt. Carl Berry, of the Plymouth police, said the engraver will be loaned for a maximum of two days, allowing persons ample time to engrave all their valuables.

Chief Ford said Plymouth and Canton township residents are urged to apply for an engraver at the State Police subpost on Mill Street between Ann Arbor road and Ann Arbor Trail.

Window stickers which state "We have joined Operation Identification," are available at the time a person applies for an engraver.

CHIEF FORD said persons should engrave their drivers' license number on their valuables rather than their social security number.

"Police don't have immediate access to social security numbers, but can trace a driver's license number in a few minutes.

"Should a person lose their license and can't remember their number, we can do it for them."

Ford also suggested persons mark their valuables in a spot only they know about.

"It's a good idea to mark expensive items in two places if possible. One can be in plain sight, the other in a hidden area on the item," he added.

Lt. Tomczyk said the program serves as a deterrent to potential burglars because criminals are reluctant to rob places where valuables have been marked.

"Should a burglary occur, recovered property can be traced back to the owner and promptly returned to him if he has it identified with his driver's license number," the lieutenant said.

Lights to brighten Ann Arbor Road

The erection of high-powered street lamps along the Ann Arbor Road corridor may soon give an extra bonus to motorists traveling on the widened road.

Members of the Plymouth City Commission last week approved by a 4-3 vote the installation of 35 high pressure sodium street lights, attached to existing Detroit Edison poles by 16-foot arms, for a cost of $12,250.

COMMISSIONERS Norbert Battermann, John Cummings and John Moehle cast votes against the expenditure and favored installation of less expensive mercury vapor lights.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees has already approved the installation of 35 sodium vapor lights on the township side of Ann Arbor Road for nearly $70,000.

The township's request for new metal poles and underground wiring accounts for the difference in street lighting price tags for the two municipalities.

CITY ENGINEER Alan Gove said existing wooden poles, carrying high-voltage Detroit Edison wires on the northern side of Ann Arbor Road, cannot be removed. Commissioners chose to take advantage of the poles and the less expensive price tag.

Gove cited the improved visibility and smaller energy consumption of the yellow-light high pressure sodium lamps, which, he says, are replacing mercury vapor lights in high-density areas.

"The new 60-foot pavement of Ann Arbor Road will require high-intensity lighting to safely illuminate the turning and merging traffic movements," he said.

Existing street lamps at the intersections of Ann Arbor Road will be removed, according to the engineer.

The lights will cost the city $5,145 each year in energy charges and hike the city's current street lighting budget of $70,000 about seven per cent. The lights will cost the township about $8,500 each year in energy bills.

Detroit Edison will place the initial street lighting payments of the city and township in escrow funds to finance energy costs over the next few years, according to Gove.

Fife and Drum Corps return from Ft. Myers

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps spent the past weekend in Fort Meyers, Va., attending the fourth annual Old Guard Ancient Muster.

The Plymouth corps, with 39 other Eastern fife and drum groups, marched in a parade on Saturday morning and in the afternoon took part in musical and drill exhibitions.

The Old Guard is the Army's official ceremony unit and escort of the President. With a tradition of service that predates the U.S. Constitution, the Old Guard is the oldest active infantry unit of the Army.

All visiting corpsmen and their parents were guests Saturday evening at the "Torchlight Tattoo" at the Jefferson Memorial. The entire program was performed by the Old Guard.

One of the six parts of the tatoo was "The History of the Stars and Stripes which traced the evolution of the American flag.

Forty members of the local corps left Friday afternoon, many departing after marching band practice . They traveled in 16 cars and many parents accompanied the group.

This was the second time the group attended the muster and they received a special flag from the Old Guard with a commendation for their diligence.

Coffee with principals set

The "Second Cup of Coffee with Your School Principal" will be hosted by the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) for interested parents and friends.

The coffees will be on the first and third Wednesday of each month, beginning Oct. 1 at 9:30 a.m. in the principal's conference room in Plymouth Canton High School.

One of the principals and one area coordinator will be present at each coffee. The purpose of these informal get-togethers will be to answer questions and discuss the high school program.

It will also be possible to tour the building and talk with available staff members and students if visitors wish.

"Everyone is welcome," say co-principals Kent Buikema and Bill Brown of Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools.

More advice would help trim the budget

The Plymouth Community School District has started a new management-by-objectives system this year but, unfortunately, couldn't get it implemented in time to apply it to one of the most critical decisions it must make in 1975-76.

That decision is how to cut $600,000 from the operating budget without affecting educational programs or without reducing certified staff.

As the midnight hour of decision approached, the school board was handed a series of cut ideas by the administration which could be made to weed out $600,000 and balance the budget.

The late timing, however, left the school board little chance to come up with ideas of its own for budget cuts. The timing made it almost imperative for the board to accept the administration's recommendations.

THIS WASN'T any sinister plot by the administration because final state aid figures, more accurate headcounts, and other statistics vital to budgeting hadn't become available until the day of the board's workshop study session.

It smacks, though, of an administrator's natural tendency to commit himself to recommendations before all the facts are compiled. Sometimes decisions can be made earlier when projections and available information indicate stronngly what must be done.

As it happened, the administration went through traditional channels for ideas on how to pare down the budget and came up with traditional recommendations.

The district faces a difficult job which isn't made easier by following tradition. These are times when creative, un-biased thinking can offer solutions not readily apparent to central office administrators, building principals and department heads.

WE CAN EXPECT that the district will face similar budget problems for the 1976-77 school year and are confident the administration will use its new management system to acquire new ideas in advance of the midnight hour when the fiscal knife must slash.

Not only should the board be brought in earlier with all the information available, but the administration should establish a communication system to allow input from teachers on how money can be saved, or expenses trimmed, without loss in program.

Parents and residents should also be drawn into this early brainstorming exchange. Any idea is worth considering, and residents can offer many suggestions to be studied. In fact, a standing citizens committee for input on budgeting and fiscal matters should be considered.

All ideas should be thrown into the hopper, with the school board then having the chance to sort out the good from the bad and consider the practical avenues available. Even as the school board isn't bound by administrative recommendations, neither must it be bound by recommendations from teachers, custodians, clerical or food service workers, or from taxpayers.

If the goal is to do the most with the money available, then the more persons involved in offering ideas on cutting expenses the better the chance for reasonable solutions to be found.

Reasonable persons, armed with the facts, can and should be relied upon to help the school district cope with its fiscal limitations.

A notable difference in the operations of the Plymouth City Commission and the Canton Township Board is the understanding and application of parliamentary procedure by the members.

City commission meetings are run in an orderly fashion, and members are well aware of Robert's Rules governing how to introduce and vote on resolutions and ordinances.

Canton trustees, however, occasionally get bogged down trying to steer measures through to passage and to complete a roll call on an item, as evidenced by the Sept. 9 board meeting.

PLYMOUTH CITY commissioners have an advantage because City Attorney Charles Lowe attends each meeting and is available to give instant legal advice whenever a parliamentary snag appears.

In fact, the commission at times is more rigid in its application of rules than required by Robert's. About a month ago, a commissioner abstained on a vote because he had a financial interest on the matter to be adopted.

He first announced his intention to abstain, and the reason, and before the ordinance change was introduced for passage the commission voted to give the commissioner permission to abstain.

I was taken aback because although it is normal for an office-holder to abstain when a possible financial conflict of interest exists, I had never seen a vote taken to grant permission.

It seemed like a supertluous exercise because what would happen if the commission, for some reason, voted "no"? The commissioner with a financial interest is almost legally bound to abstain and is aware of his moral obligation to do so. Why take a vote on an action an individual must decide and must do regardless of the outcome of a tally?

City Attorney Lowe explains that it's his opinion such a vote is required by city charter. The vote is taken, he adds, to prevent a commissioner from taking the easy way out of a controversial vote by abstaining. This way a commissioner can only abstain when there's a real conflict of interest, and to prevent a cop-out the other commissioners must agree the conflict is actual and warrants abstention.

THAT WAS THE exact issue Sept. 9 when Canton Trustee James Poole decided to abstain on a vote to approve appointments to the Citizens Advisory Council.

When Poole announced his abstention, Supervisor Robert Greenstein, as chairman of the township board, instructed the clerk to change the abstention to a "no" vote.

Greenstein reasoned that it was impossible for Poole to have a financial conflict of interest problem in voting on the CAC. Because he deemed it improper to abstain, Greenstein asked for Poole's vote to be changed to a "no" vote.

When Poole objected, and other board members couldn't agree on how the vote should be recorded, it was finally decided to let the abstention stand and ask the township attorney for a legal opinion on what conditions were required before a trustee could abstain.

The problems at that meeting were that the township attorney wasn't present and other trustees didn't agree with the chairman's action. It will take at least two weeks before a "parliamentary rule" is returned from the attorney.

Poole's reason for abstaining was that he didn't have time to study the list of nominees for the CAC before the board meeting. I'm not sure what Robert's would say, and don't mean to anticipate what Canton's attorney will say, but covering other boards and councils over the years this same issue has come up many times. When it has occurred, the councilman or trustee will voluntarily vote "no" and then explain the negative vote was cast because the information was received too late for sufficient study.

When such incidents occurred, it was also usually the case of a trustee and supervisor, or mayor and councilman, who lacked trust and weren't communicating well. If such a bottleneck exists in Canton for this reason, Poole and Greenstein would do well to bury personal differences and give the best interests of the township top priority.

And keeping Canton uppermost should suggest to Poole that he be more forward while voting as a trustee instead of always letting his personal political future being the guideline on which way to vote. That's not Robert's; it's common sense.

Glenn shuts out Churchill, 21-0

By TOM SCHRAM
Sports Editor

Fred Shoemaker looks a whole lot better in a track suit than in football togs.

At 5-8 and 140 pounds, the speedster from John Glenn looks out of place among the giants of the gridiron.

But Friday afternoon, amidst an on-again, off-again drizzle that would have messed the footing of a mountain goat, Shoemaker showed that he had to make no excuses for his size on a football field as he rushed for 113 yards in 24 carries and two touchdowns to lead the Rockets to a 21-0 victory over Livonia Churchill.

"Freddie's super," said John Glenn Coach Lloyd Carr after his team's second victory in as many outings.

"He not only is exceptionally quick, but he's gutty. He's not afraid to get hit."

THE CREDIT for the win extends, of course, beyond the senior Shoemaker who is among the fastest dashmen in the area when the season turns.

The John Glenn defense has been making li of China lately as it has been unscored upon since the first quarter of the season when Garden City West pushed across a touchdown in Glenn's opening day, 9-7 victory over the Tigers.

And besides the string of seven shutout quarters, the first-liners on defense can boast that they did not allow the explosive Chargers to cross mid-field all game.

Only in the waning minutes, with the second string for both teams in, did Churchill threaten.

Despite the inept offensive showing by Churchill, the game remained in contention until midway through the final period.

Shoemaker accounted for the entire scoring in the first three quarters when he scampered in over left end from 10 yards out on the Rockets' initial possession.

The TD capped a 10-play, 74-yard drive. Midway through the drive, Glenn quarterback Todd Deluca hit George Robertys with a 23-yard pass to put the Rockets in scoring position.

Shortly after that play, Mike Welch had seemingly ended the Rocket momentum with an interception, but a Charger lineman had jumped the snap on the play, so Glenn had five yards and another chance.

Toward the end of the second quarter, Glenn threatened again, marching from midfield in the final 4:11 of the half. When Deluca hit Greg Thompson with a sideline pass on the Churchill two yard line with 38 seconds remaining, it appeared that there was only a Shoemaker fake and plunge between a one and two touchdown Glenn lead.

The Churchill defense rose up to stop Shoemaker for no gain, however, and with 22 seconds left, Glenn coach Carr opted for a field goal.

AFTER A PANDEMONIUM of bodies moving on and off the field as the clock ticked off the vital seconds, Deluca's kick was up and straight through the uprights.

Glenn, however, had used 12 players on the play and that infraction cost them the field goal which would have put the game out of reach of a Charger touchdown.

The third quarter was both a comedy of Churchill errors and a tragedy of lost opportunity for the Rockets.

Matt Foster, in punt formation, did not handle the snap from center and, with 5:51 remaining in the game, Glenn took indisputable charge of matters when Jack Henderson fell on the ball for a Rocket touchdown.

On its next possession, Glenn marched for 46 yards in seven plays against a churchill defense which had obviously had enough of the Westland visitors. Shoemaker powered over from two yards out for the final scoring of the game.

With subtitutions in evididence throughout, Churchill mounted its only march of the day but fell four yards short when time expired.

"Let's face it, Glenn outhit us and outhustled us," said Charger Coach Kaestner. "They deserved to win."

"When you can shut out a team as good as this Churchill squad, you know you must be doing something right on defense," Glenn Coach Carr countered.

Both teams swing into league action next week as Glenn hosts Thurston in a Northwest Suburban tilt and Churchill travels to Northville in an early Western Six showdown.

Bentley stays perfect, blanks Allen Park

Senior Russ Hodges passed for 137 yards and two touchdowns Friday to lead Livonia Bentley to a 21-0 football victory over Allen Park.

The victory started Bentley's Suburban Eight season on a successful note and lifted the Bulldogs' record to 2-0 overall.

Hodges started things out in the first quarter when he lofted a 50-yard pass to Ron Cox in the early goings to draw first blood for Bentley.

Later in that quarter, Tim Oakley crashed over from two yards out to put the Bulldogs ahead 14-0.

That score held up until Hodges went to work again in the third quarter.

This time Hodges picked out Mike Robbins from 27 yards out for the final scoring of the game.

Meanwhile the Bentley defense was holding Allen Park at bay throughout.

Allen Park never threatened to get on the board in the game as Bentley continually stifled the Jaguars' drives.

The final statistics showed Hodges hitting on seven of 15 passes for the 137 yards and also leading his team in rushing.

Of the 125 yards Bentley picked up on the ground, Hodges was responsible for 76 of them in just five carries.

Bentley will entertain Edsel Ford next Friday night in a 7:30 p.m. game. Edsel Ford is currently 0-2.

GCE, Borgess battle to 0-0 tie

By JIM BRADLEY

Garden City East outfought Bishop Borgess on the rain-swept mud of East's football field Friday night but the two grid powers ended in a soggy scoreless deadlock.

The rain, which had fallen intermittently during the day and left the field a muddy quagmire in spots, stopped until the final three minutes of the contest and definitely hindered the offensive power of both teams.

But the Panthers of East, powered by the running of burly Keith Sieczkowski, outrushed Borgess 119 yards to 54 as the East senior back chugged through the mud for 95 yards.

However, save the bouquet of roses for the defensive giants of assistant coach Carl Stevens and his staff of defensive specialists who came up with tenacious tackling and pursuit that stopped All- Area tailback Jim Kozlowski to a mere 55 yards in 16 carries.

Time and again the Panthers rose up to smash back the green-shirted Spartans and keep them from paydirt. It was the second shutout for East in as many games and head coach Gary Humphrey says his squad is a team to be reckoned with in the weeks ahead.

"It was another defensive gem my assistants came up with tonight," Humphrey said after the scoreless tie. The teams didn't play an overtime period to settle the tie because they didn't discuss it beforehand and, with the rain driving down with great intensity, it seemed fitting that neither team won under those conditions.

East had two good chances to score. They had a first down on Borgess' four yard line after recovering a fumble on the Spartan 27 yard line. Sieczkowski's bull-like plunges ate up most of the yardage. Halfback Mike Thomas gained a few more and quarterback Wally Krol hit left end Greg Emery with the pass on third-and-seven that took it to the four.

Thomas got one, Sieczkowski added another yard and Thomas rammed to the two. Humphrey then called on Rob Taraskavage for the field goal attempt from the nine-yard line and the junior's left-footed kick sailed off to the right.

East's only other real threat came in the pouring rain with two minutes left in the game. Kozlowski, who punted well all night, booted to the East 26-yard line with just 1:35 left in the game.

Kimball slams Eagles

Things are getting easier for Royal Oak Kimball.

The powerfull Knights from the east side had to pull out all strings last year to defeat Redford Thurston 8-6.

But this year the job was considerably easier as Kimball moved consistently and took an 18-6 football victory over the Eagles Friday.

Quarterback Dick Lewis started things after Kimball had returned the opening kickoff of the game to the Thurston 30.

Lewis capped a five-play drive by taking the ball in himself from three yards out.

Brian Garber came back to tie the game for the Eagles late in the opening stanza when he rushed 12 yards around right end to knot things at the 3:43 mark.

But the Knights went ahead to stay on their next posession as Don Peters, subbing for Lewis, hit Steve Grant down the right sideline for a 42-yard TD.

Kimball ended the scoring with a one-yard run with 16 seconds left in the first half by Paul Stark for the game's final touchdown.

Kimball wracked up 291 yards in total offense compared to 136 for Thurston. Each team completed only one pass and Kimball was penalized four times for 60 yards while Thurston was flagged twice for 20 yards.

Chiefs smash Annapolis to even record

Winning football requires balance, and Plymouth Canton carried out that maxim perfectly Friday.

The offense scored twice and the defense scored twice as the Chiefs spread things around in their 27-7 pasting of Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

The victory evened Canton's season mark at 1-1 while Annapolis fell to 0-2 on the year.

Co-captain Jim Tiller played and scored both ways to lead the Chiefs and senior back Mike Ogden wracked up 117 yards in 18 carries and another touchdown as Canton came back from a lethargic first half to win going away.

"We really got going in the second half. I hope it straightened us around for the year," said Chief Coach Jim Muneio, who saw his charges rally from a 7-7 deadlock after two quarters.

NO PLACE TO HIDE and nowhere to go, Canton's Jim Tiller finds himself fresh out of options on this option play early in Canton's 27-7 victory over Annapolis Friday. Tiller came back to score two touchdowns in the game. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

It looked as if it might be a long afternoon for the Chiefs at the outset as its offense sputtered in the first quarter and Annapolis put on a sustained drive to take a 7-0 lead.

The Cougars went 55 yards in 14 plays with Jim Peters taking it the final yard on a quarterback keeper to draw first blood in a drive that consumed most of the opening stanza.

The Chiefs got rolling in the second quarter, but costly penalties kept the offense from scoring. It was not until Tiller stepped in front of a Cougar end, late in the second quarter, and raced 42 yards with an interception for a touchdown that the Chiefs caught up.

Tiller evaded two tacklers and dived into the end zone, and Dave Pink added the conversion kick to tie things.

Pink, who plays end as well as handling the place-kicking chores for the Chiefs, was injured shortly after when he injured his foot. Pink will be out indefinitely.

Tiller struck again for the Chiefs on their second possession of the second half when he hauled in a Tom Close pass and swept in from 20 yards out at the 9:59 mark of the third quarter to give Canton the lead permanently.

That play was set up by a Scott Gray fumble recovery.

Mike Ogden showed his stuff on the Chiefs' next possession. Ogden accumulated 37 of his 117 yards for the day in one play when cut inside and swept to the outside, breaking two tackles en route.

Meanwhile the Chief defense was keeping Annapolis in check and in the fourth quarter, Canton began marching again. This time the drive was halted when the Chiefs fumbled on the Annapolis 25 yard line.

But on the next play, Jim Cole picked off a Peters pass in the left flat and scurried down the sideline for the score. Bob Yauck, subbing for Pink as a place kicker, had made his first conversion but missed here.

In the final four minutes of the game, the Cougars marched from their own five to the Canton 18 yard line but the clock expired before any damage was done.

"We didn't get into any rah-rah stuff in the lockerroom at halftime, but we seemed to be a bit more agressive in the second half. We certainly jelled," Munieo said.

Canton takes on Farmington Harrison in its 2 p.m. Western Six opener next Saturday.

"They run well out of a power offense. We'll have our hands full," said Muneio.

Rocks rip RU

By BILL COLLINS

"The playing field was not exactly conducive to smooth-running football," observed Salem head coach Tom Moshimer moments after the Rocks first victory of the season, 20-6.

Between them, Redford Union and Plymouth Salem came up with 10 fumbles and one interception which tarnished any artistic effect the game might have carried.

An RU fumble deep in their own territory led to the first score of the contest when Dave Champion recovered on the Redford 33 and five plays later Charlie Johnson gave Plymouth a 6-0 edge from 10 yards out.

With two minutes remaining in the first quarter, RU noseguard Rick Allen covered a loose ball on the Salem 33 yardline and on the ensuing play quarterback Mike Petch tossed a touchdown pass to Mike Watson.

The RU scoring play knotted the score at 6-6 as both teams failed to convert on any points after touchdown.

Early in the second quarter Salem senior linebacker John Genrich fell on the elusive pigskin at the Panther 27 yard line. Once again Plymouth capitalized on an RU turnover in its own end.

A fourth down pass to John Horton set up the second Salem score. Howard Inch carried this one in for a 10-yard score to re-establish the Rocks six-point margin, 12-6.

Plymouth Salem controlled the play in the first half by virtue of its ball control offense which ran 45 plays to RU's 15.

With six minutes remaining in the third stanza Salem's Larry Rightler picked off an errant RU knuckleball and returned it to the 48.

The next play proved to be the clincher as Rightler, now playing offensive halfback, shed several Redford defenders on a 52-yard romp for Salem's final score.

Following that series, Redford Union moved 61 yards after Brian Macek picked up a Plymouth fumble.

It seemed that all quarterback Mike Petch had to do was throw the ball in the direction of the Rock secondary and wait for a yellow flag.

Salem was called for three consecutive pass interference violations.

The drive was capped, ironically, by a six-yard touchdown pass to Mark Ryder to make the final 18-12. The Redford score marked the first time since 1973 that Redford Union had scored two touchdowns against a Suburban Eight opponent.

Minutes later the anticipation of the Rocks' first win was dampened when quarterback Steve Maisner suffered a shoulder injury.

The full extent of Maisner's injury will not be known until x rays are taken, however the injury did appear to serious.

Salem will take on Sub 8 favorite Trenton away next Friday while RU is home to Dearborn.

It's tough to ask a small businessman for money these days.

But it's a lot tougher to say no to a person who really needs help.

There's going to be a special volunteer calling on you in a few days.

And that volunteer is going to ask you for money.

Money to help us help people. Through the nearly 110 community services supported by the Torch Drive.

Those volunteers have a tough, thankless job. One of the rewards is the knowledge that they're helping people who really need help. Another is that they get to meet some of the most generous and understanding people anywhere: the businessmen of our community.

So keep your eye peeled. They'll be calling on you soon for a Torch Drive contribution. A contribution that we're sure will help make this a better place to live. A better place to do business.

We never forget that it's people like you that keep us in business.

People who need... need people who care.

Woman's world is wide, festival shows

By MARGARET MILLER

"I won't see in my lifetime, even in the United States, the day when women have full equality with men.

"But all over the world there is a feeling of unrest, change, awkening. Women are realizing more and more they are over-educated and under-used. This won't be true forever."

The words are those of Patricia Burnett, an organizer for the National Organization for Women, and she said them in a talk that highlighted Schoolcraft College's two-day International Women's Year festival.

Ms. Burnett was talking about the women she had seen while traveling around the world to look at woman's conditions in many countries.

But she need not have gone that far. The same evidence could be seen on campus as several hundred women converged for the two days of seminars, demonstrations, exhibits and just comparing notes.

IT WAS A FESTIVAL of celebration; the displays on the accomplishment of local women, the bookshelves with women's writings in all fields, the art work by women, the music brought to the campus by Ursula Walker and Linda Small attested to that.

But the knowledge that there's yet a long way to go was present too.

Women who have played varying roles in politics came through with the message that a woman has to work harder to get elected and nearly always works harder after she's in office.

"You have to be prepared to lick a lot of envelopes, and then realize you'll carry more of the load," was how a couple of speakers put it.

A panel of women who talked about non-traditional careers were agreed they are getting better acceptance from their male counterparts.

But one young woman who has a building business mentioned a banker's surprise that "I had my whole package put together."

"I guess he expected me to ask directions," she added.

WOMAN'S PLACE in the world represented by the younger generation came in for consideration too.

A panel of young men indicated they were well satisfied with the new social scene of more casual dating and more equality for the sexes, but wondered if equality on the job market wasn't going to pose a threat to them.

Women who had returned to school indicated they're still working out the question of who minds the house while mom studies, and one career woman left—just a bit reluctantly—to get dinner instead of hearing Ms. Small's top-flight jazz.

"It still comes down to the fact that it's your job to do that, no matter what else you do," she commented.

One discussion of no unrest was the one that stressed creative homemaking. Its participants, in varying stages of life, said they found plenty of variety in their homemaker roles and found ample outlets for creativity while caring for their families.

MS. BURNETT, in her travelog talk, looked at the roles of women in other parts of the world and concluded that "this country is the most progressive."

Russian women, she said in her talk illustrated by slides, "are quite well off in the matter of equality with men," but she found deplorable the condition of the Iranian women who learn as small children to veil their faces in public, and many of the others she met.

The speaker, a member of the Michigan Commission on Women, said she felt sure that the 1976 bicentennial year would see passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

"If it doesn't pass soon," she said, "we could have a real revolution."

GRACE BENNETT, former Plymouth resident, is contemplative during the 95th birthday party given in her niece's Livonia home.

Memories of area span her 95 years

By MARGARET MILLER

Grace Bennett remembers well the days when she was living in Plymouth and watching with interest the building of a new landmark, the Mayflower Hotel.

She and her banker husband, Edgar K. Bennett, attended the hotel's opening in November, 1927.

And last week Mrs. Bennett, now living in a senior citizen home in Wayne, was back in the Mayflower, for a luncheon to celebrate her 95th birthday.

"It's so changed now," she told her niece, Beverly Schmitt of Livonia. "Really fixed up beautifully."

After the birthday luncheon, Mrs. Schmitt had a small party for her aunt in her home on Scone Avenue.

Guests on hand to help cut the birthday cake included Bessie Holloway, Mrs. Bennett's sister, now a resident of Presbyterian Village in Redford Township.

"She's seven years younger than I," said the birthday lady. "She was the youngest of of our family. I was the oldest."

AND SMILING as she cuts a birthday cake with her sister, Bessie Hollowell (left) of Redford Township. (Staff photos by Art Emanuel)

THE WOMEN, part of a large family headed by William and Blanche Robinson, grew up on a farm that now is part of Canton Township.

They went to a one-room schoolhouse a mile and a half from their home and then to Wayne for high school.

Grace trained as a dressmaker, but did not practice her profession while living in Plymouth.

"My husband didn't want me to work," she explained.

She did sew professionally, though, after she moved to Detroit following his death about 40 years ago. During a stay at the King's Daughters retirees home, she said, "I made things for all the ladies."

NOW SHE STILL makes some of her own clothes—she took time out from the 95th birthday festivities to ask her niece to select some material for her soon—and she continues to do fine needlepoint, embroidery and crochet work.

No trouble at all seeing to do close work, she said.

Her recipe for a life full of years? "Just good clean living and keep happy," she said. "And come from a long-lived family."

Mrs. Bennett said her grandfather lived to the age of 95, too.

"And as my birthday was getting close, she added, "I kept thinking so often of my dear mother who wanted so much to reach that age, but missed it by six months.

"I wish she could have reached 95 as I did."

OTHER GUESTS at the birthday party included Mrs. Bennett's nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stevens of Plymouth, Marian McLaren of Plymouth, Violet Belf of Detroit, Gladys Gleason of Royal Oak, and Phoebe Hollaway of Livonia.

West led the 10 of spades.

The fact that a lead has been avoided should serve to warn a shrewd declarer.

North's bidding left much to be desired. After South opened, North decided three spades was not a good description. Certainly, he was too strong, but to force the action to six cannot be recommended.

Not unnaturally, West avoided leading from a king. A minor-suit lead would have made declarer's play easy.

Since the heart finesse had to succeed to give the contract a chance, South won in his hand and led the heart. This succeeded, so he came to his hand with a trump and took the deep diamond finesse to lose to the jack.

East continued the hearts and South ruffed dummy's last heart.

By ERNEST and KAY CLINTON

Another low diamond was led and the 10 was successfully finessed.

If the diamonds divide, the contract is now made. Most declarer's tried this or previously had led toward South's queens.

The best line is to cash the club and play all the trumps. On the last trump West must either unguard the diamond or discard the club king.

If the club king does not appear, the queen is of no value and declarer leads toward the diamond ace. The diamond king may appear, either because the diamonds divide or because West has released a diamond to conceal the club king.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN ANDREW CHURAN
(Ann Marie Jettinghoff)

Ann Jettinghoff married in OLGC

Ann Jettinghoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jettinghoff of Wildwing Street, Plymouth, became the bride of John Andrew Churan in a recent ceremony in Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church of Plymouth.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Churan of Dayton. The Rev. Robert Keller officiated and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

She wore a floor-length dress with chapel train and pin-tucked bodice and a veil of bridal illusion with silk flower trim. Her flowers were daisies in a cascade arrangement.

Mary Kay Jettinghoff, as maid of honor for her sister, wore a pink empire dress and carried pink daisies in a white basket. Bridesmaids Marcia Morrow and Jinny Simmons had similar outfits in blue and yellow. All wore white picture hats.

Assisting the bridegroom were Michael Meixner of Dayton as best man and Jeff Morrow and Jim Schmitt as ushers. Lisa Jettinghoff was flower girl.

The reception was held in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center.

The newlyweds are living in Columbum. The new Mrs. Churan, a 1975 graduate of the University of Dayton, is employed by the S.S. Kresge Co. and her husband, who graduated from the University of Cincinnati this year, is employed by Timken Co.
